The big whistle on the new car shops blew its cheering blast for the first time on Thursday of last week. Miss Zella Schwenke, daughter of Agt. C. W. Schwenke, was sponsor; she did not break a bottle of champagne over the nose of the power house, or touch an electric button that set in motion thousands of wheels, but she just pulled the rope and played the first industrial chime on the big whistle—"and long may she waive."

The remarkable prosperity and wonderful longevity attained by "East Lynne" can be explained only by the fact that the story the play unfolds is intensely human. Although numberless dramas have been written in imitation of this excellent play, not one of them reaches the depths of feeling or sounds the note of human appeal as truly as does this dramatic picture of the joys and sorrows of the beautiful, unfortunate Lady Isabel. To adequately portray the varying emotions of this complex character is a task requiring not only the charm of youthful beauty but a marked degree of histrionic ability as well. The engagement at the Logan Opera House is for next Monday evening, March 16.
